In case of emergency...

When the unforgettable images of disasters like Hurricane Katrina, the Indian Ocean Tsunami or the tragic events of September 11 flash onto our television sets, the magnitude of the devastation to other communities is difficult to comprehend. As a nation, we pitch in to help our neighbors in any number of ways. As individuals, we become more aware of the world around us. As a medical facility, our reaction is to prepare.

communication problems existed between the EMTs and the local hospitals it supported when community emergency situations arose. By the early 1990s nine hospitals supported by that California EMT unit had implemented the new plan, and by the

Over the course of the past five years as both natural and man-made disasters have created a heightened sense of awareness in all of us, The Chester County Hospital has taken that time to develop an emergency preparedness plan. The plan that the Hospital has adopted and adapted is a universal system for all-hazard preparation.

Known as the Hospital Emergency Incident Command System (HEICS), the system was developed in the late 1980s in southern California by an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) unit that recognized late 1990s, HEICS was adopted by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) as its standard.

"It worked so well HEICS began to spread out to different areas," said The Chester County Hospital's Director of Safety and Security Ron Takacs, who is also the Hospital's Emergency Preparedness Coordinator. The Hospital began its own implementation of the plan in April 2004, so that in the event of a local or regional emergency, the Hospital team can manage a crisis and work easily with other medical organizations in the County that have also implemented the HEICS system.

The foundation of the HEICS plan rests on the organization of an Incident

Command System. The system is comprised of 50 men and women who in the event of a true wide-scale emergency are called to action to manage the situation, each responsible for a specific task, while still maintaining the regular functions and activity at the Hospital.

For example, Hospital President, H.L. Perry Pepper fulfills the role of Incident Commander. He is the person in charge to lead the Hospital through such an event. He is surrounded by positions such as Public Information Officer, Safety and Security Officer, Liaison Officer, Logistics Chief, Planning Chief, Finance Chief and Operations Chief. Each of these men and women then has additional people reporting to them about the current situation in various areas, such as the Emergency Department, supply levels, staffing, and facility issues.

"It's a very structured way of assigning tasks and ensuring that we're not leaving anything undone," says Takacs, who serves as the Safety and Security Officer for the HEICS plan.

In agreement, Hospital Director of Infection Prevention and Control, Charleen Faucette (who fulfills the HEICS Infection Control Director role) notes, "The Chester County Hospital's HEICS plan is really designed to have all the right decision-makers in the room." The benefit of the HEICS plan is that it is expandable. If the emergency situation is major, all 50 people on the team can be engaged; if the situation is minor, subsets of the team can be set into motion. In addition, roles and responsibilities are well documented and mobile, so that if, for example, the Patient Tracking Officer is offsite during a situation that arises in the middle of the night, another equally-capable person can be assigned those responsibilities and will know exactly what to do.

Mr. Pepper says, "Our top priorities at the Hospital are to ensure the health and welfare of our patients and our employees. We want to make sure their needs are met and that all are well cared for whether it's a crisis situation or just a regular work day at the Hospital. By planning for worst-case scenarios now, we will be more prepared to address the needs of our community and our Hospital family."

Having a plan on paper is one facet; the other is to put the plan into action.

"Not only do we talk about it," says Faucette, "we conduct drills." To date, the Hospital has run 16 drills on-paper and five live drills covering numerous types of disasters, including those that are hot topics in the news and realistic threats in the County.

During a recent drill 26 people from the Hospital's Operational HEICS team gathered in the main board room to get briefed on a "hypothetical situation." Then, armed with their walkie-talkies, identification vests and leadership responsibilities, the team returned to where they would normally be during a typical day, and role played a Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS) scenario to see how updates traveled up and down the lines of communication.

Through these active scenarios "the team develops a comfort level in reacting to these things" so that it becomes second nature if the Incident Command System really needed to be activated, says Faucette.

The Command System is designed to react to any type of hazard, from bioterrorism to power outages. To guarantee the Hospital is prepared fully, planning groups have been created to address specific scenarios making headlines across the world. For nearly a year, a group of the Hospital's executive and clinical leaders has met regularly to establish a Pandemic Response Plan. This specific scenario would follow the structure of the HEICS plan, but would address concerns unique to an influenza pandemic, such as what the Hospital would do if there were a sudden surge of contagious patients.

The Hospital is strategizing on Pandemic responsiveness now by building up a stock of necessary medical supplies and developing relationships with outside organizations for support if needed, rather than waiting to plan in the midst of a crisis.

"The days of just being reactive are over," says Takacs. He reflected that Y2K inspired people to think; September 11 inspired people to act. "People look to Hospitals as a haven during times of stress," he added, "and in a time of need The Chester County Hospital is making sure it's prepared so that it can serve the residents of Chester County well."

PRACTICE MAKES perfect

Over the course of the past few years, the team and leaders at The Chester County Hospital have practiced many timely scenarios that could pose a potential health risk to the community. Some of the drills the Hospital has run to enact and test the Command Center Team include:

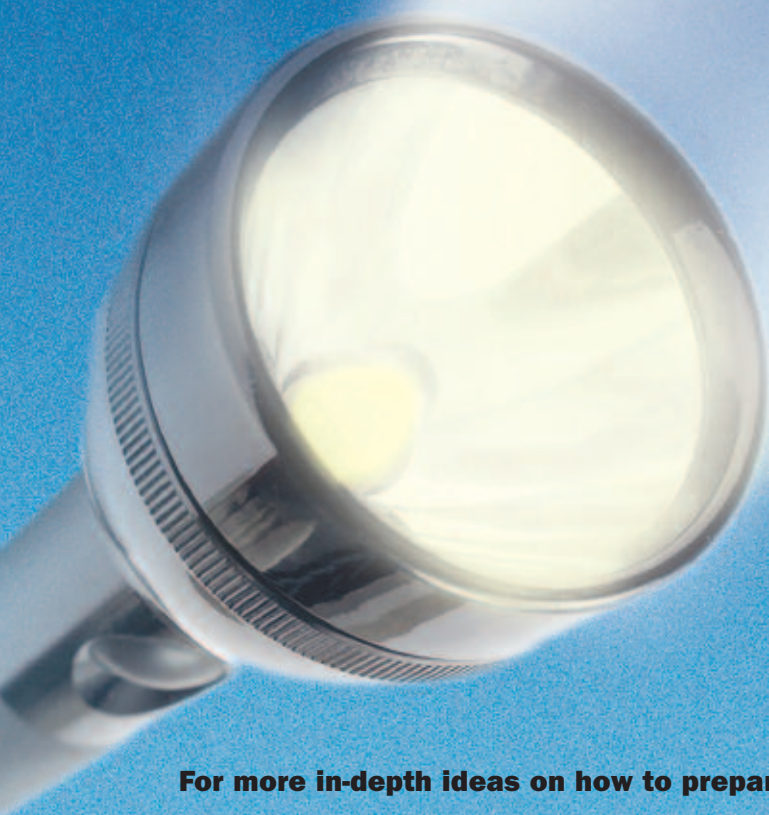

- Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS) health risk
- Portable Decontamination Tent speed drill
- Chemical (ammonia) release in West Chester
- Tornado
- Freight train derailment with a hazardous materials release
- Multi-vehicle accident adjacent to Hospital causing a loss of electricity
- Chlorine gas release
- Suspected anthrax exposure
- Building collapse with multiple traumas
- Terrorist event including a radiation release

- www.ready.gov
- www.cdc.gov

Over the past few years, The Chester County Hospital has been preparing its “house” for a variety of emergency situations so that it is ready in the event of a crisis in the community. Locally, The Chester County Department of Health recognizes several situations pose potential health risks specific to the community. Some hazards include power outages and flooding. As the Hospital prepares for a variety of emergency events so should members of the community. Here are a few tips for emergency preparedness that can be used at home.

1 EDUCATE YOURSELF

The first step in readying your household for an emergency situation is to be aware of the various types of events that could potentially affect the community where you live, work or learn. The variety of situations are not universal for every township or county, so what could affect your home will depend on its natural, man-made and environmental surroundings.

- a. Learn what emergencies could affect your local community.
- b. Learn what methods of communication officials will use to share important information, whether it is television, radio, internet, newspaper, emergency hotline or warning signal.
- c. Learn CPR and First Aid. For a list of safety courses available through The Chester County Hospital's Wellness Program, visit www.cchosp.com.
- d. Monitor current events and follow the news to learn more about national or local incidents that could affect your home.

2 CREATE YOUR KIT

Whether your family needs to stay home or leave home, building an Emergency

Preparedness Kit

that is assembled

to travel easily is a simple way to prepare your home for a variety of emergencies. Your kit, which needs to be refreshed every six months, should include a minimum five-day supply for each member of the family. Some basics to add to the kit are:

- a. Bottled water (1 gallon per person, per day) and non-perishable ready-to-eat food; A manual can-opener; disposable plastic ware and cooking utensils for meals; Infant formula and baby food, if applicable.
- b. First-aid supplies and manual; Tools, flashlight and extra batteries; Battery-powered radio and extra batteries; Whistle; Fire extinguisher; Matches in a waterproof container; Notebook and writing utensils.
- c. Hygiene and sanitation items (including hand wipes, waterless hand sanitizer, garbage bags and twist-ties for personal sanitation); Specific supplies per person, such as prescription medications, diapers, eyeglasses, etc.
- d. Bedding/blankets and extra weather-appropriate clothing (including long sleeve shirt, long pants and sturdy shoes).
- e. A copy of your family's Emergency Plan, along with important contact information; Copies of important family documents and personal identification in waterproof container; Cash, change and/or traveler's checks; Extra set of car keys; Cell phone and car charger.
- f. If applicable, food, water and other necessities for your pet(s).

3 PRACTICE YOUR PLAN

Practice makes perfect, even when you are preparing for an unknown situation. Communication is the most critical step in creating your plan, so make sure all members of your family understand what to do, where to go, or who to call. Here are a few ideas to keep in mind.

- a. Simple home plans can include installing smoke detectors on every level of your home and check the batteries at least every six months; Find at least two ways of exiting every room in the house; Have fire extinguishers in an easy-to-access location and teach your family how to operate them; teach children how and when to call 9-1-1; Post emergency contact numbers near every telephone; Assemble an Emergency Preparedness Kit; Review your plan with your family every six months; Conduct drills; Know how to shut off the water, gas and electricity in your home.
- b. If an evacuation is mandated, know where you will go and a few ways to get there; Keep updated maps handy if evacuation becomes necessary; If your school, work or community has a plan, please make sure you are aware of it and how they will communicate that to you; Identify a meeting place and how each person in the family will arrive there, specifically for younger members who cannot drive themselves; Don't forget to bring your Emergency Preparedness Kit; Take your pets, if applicable, and make sure you go to a pet-friendly location; Leave a note in your home to say where you have gone, when you left and how you can be reached; Lock your house.
- c. If officials require residents to stay in their homes or neighborhood, your Emergency Preparedness Kit will also come in handy; Identify the safest places in your home; Know your neighbors and the resources available among the families that live there so that you can work as a team and help each other; Keep local maps and important phone numbers handy, including the phone numbers of your healthcare providers.

COMMUNITY COMMUNICATIONS

If the County is managing a crisis situation, it will communicate to the residents and provide appropriate direction through the local news media, says Betsy Walls, Bureau Director of Personal Health Services for the Chester County Department of Health. Residents can look toward television channels CBS 3, ABC 6, NBC 10 and FOX 29, as well as radio stations WCOJ 1420 and KYW 1060. In addition, the County will post an ALERT section on its own website www.chesco.org. The media will be the biggest resource for accurate information, says Walls. She added that the County has also enacted an all-hazards response plan so that it can respond to any type of event.

Resources for Successful Emergency Preparation

Human Resources

Success during a large-scale emergency requires more than just having the right technology and equipment: It also depends on connecting people at area hospitals so they can give or get the extra help that is needed. Post-9/11, this realization drove the Delaware Valley Healthcare Council (DVHC) to organize hospitals throughout the region into Emergency Healthcare Support Zones (EHSZ), bringing their key personnel and government officials together for monthly planning meetings.

“It’s been said that the middle of a disaster is no time for people to be trading business cards,” notes Tom Grace RN, PhD, Vice President for Health Services and Emergency Preparedness at DVHC. “The Zones are about improving communication and coordination before disaster strikes.”

Chester County Hospital serves as host Hospital for the Chester County/Western Montgomery County EHSZ, with Vice President of Support Services Lou Guardiani as moderator. Director of Security Ron Takacs also attends, as do his counterparts from eight area hospitals. “We’re looking at emergency preparedness from outside the box like never before,” Takacs says.

One early achievement was the creation of mutual aid agreements, signed by each CEO, in which the hospitals agreed to share staff and resources in the event of an emergency. EHSZ members worked together to assess the Zone’s resources, from the number of available beds to decontamination facilities, and run practice scenarios. They have shared their hospitals’ disaster plans, and standardized job titles and functions to ease communication. They also have started to use a new online system called E-team, which enables live communication and information feeds during an emergency.

But perhaps the greatest benefit of all is the simplest: helping people get to know each other. “We have put names to faces and developed close working relationships,” says Lou Guardiani. “If the worst does happen, we’ll know exactly who to call.”

Financial Resources

In order for a large-scale emergency planning program to be strategically successful, it needs to be accepted not just by individual hospitals, but by all hospitals. To encourage this, the Pennsylvania State Department of Health offers grant money to a variety of healthcare institutions.

The Chester County Hospital has applied for and has received grant money from the Health Resources and Services Administration’s (HRSA) State Planning Grants program over the past three years. In fact, the Hospital has received more than $200,000 in funding that has been determined by calculating a base amount plus a designated amount per Emergency Department visit. The State has established structured guidelines for what the Hospital can spend the grant money on and a quarterly reporting deadline for State record keeping.

The State has identified specific areas in which the grant money must be allocated, such as training, education and supplies. Over the years, The Chester County Hospital has purchased ventilator equipment, training sessions, as well as communication equipment, emergency lighting supplies, gloves, masks and portable atriums.

In exchange for the grant, the State requires recipient hospitals to participate in Department of Health technological initiatives like its Facilities Resource Emergency Database.

But perhaps the greatest benefit of all is the simplest: helping people get to know each other.

◀ With just a moment's notice, the Plant Operations Department was asked to assemble the Hospital's two portable Decontamination Units for inspection by the Security Office (pictured, 2nd from top: Security Office John Mullin). The team successfully fulfilled the impromptu assignment in just 20 minutes. Afterward, Director of Safety and Security Ron Takacs gave a walk-through to Rick Ziobro of the Emergency Department (pictured bottom).

Technological Resources

The Facilities Resource Emergency Database (FRED), operated by the State Department of Health, is an online emergency notification system that the Hospital monitors at two locations on-site 24-hours a day, 7-days a week. FRED is an alert system that communicates emergency situations to other healthcare facilities in the state. For example, if a hospital is evacuating because of a fire, all hospitals across the state are notified so that they can provide assistance as needed.

FRED works independently, but in cooperation with a web-based system called E-Team, which is operated by the Delaware Valley Healthcare Council. E-Team is an online database where Hospitals can enter the current status of supplies, equipment and bed availability. If a hospital was in the middle of an emergency situation, the hospital's leaders could view the resources available at neighboring hospitals and call upon that hospital for assistance. E-Team provides a live status of the situation.

Anna Saunders-Nero, Director of Radiology, gathers her assignment and walkie-talkie for an emergency drill.

Another technological resource utilized by The Chester County Hospital is the Health Alert Network (HAN). HAN is a phone/pager alert system that sends informational messages by text or voice to communicate health emergencies in the state.

For example, the HAN system was used to spread the word about the recent E. coli out-breaks. The page system will continuously call the four Chester County Hospital team members who are on the system on their work phones, cell phones, home phones and pagers until the recipient picks up the message and replies that it has been received.

All three of these tools – HAN, FRED and E-Team – are communication tools with the goal of informing the Hospital about situations that are occurring in the county, region and state.

Hospital Board Changes Leadership

Mr. Pepper and Mr. Armstrong

A special moment marked the October 17, 2006 Hospital Board meeting when Richard M. Armstrong, Jr. was recognized for his 21 years of leadership as Board Chairman. Mr. Armstrong announced his intention to step down as Chairman at the 2005 annual meeting. He will continue to serve as a member of the Board of Trustees of The Chester County Hospital Foundation.

In honoring him, Mr. Pepper recognized his service by presenting him with the Hospital's Bronze Medal for distinguished service. He said that over his tenure as chairman Mr. Armstrong had provided exceptional leadership during some difficult times. The Hospital will show its gratitude to Mr. Armstrong's dedication by commissioning and hanging a portrait of him in the Board Room gallery.

Hospital Board members have elected William W. Wylie, Jr. as Mr. Armstrong's successor. Mr. Wylie joined the Hospital Board in 2002 and has served on several committees since that time. In addition to being President of Mitchell, Sinkler & Starr, an investment advisory firm, Mr. Wylie is a Supervisor for West Marlborough Township, the Chairman of the Pennsylvania Hunt Cup Committee, and the former President of the Board for Upland Country Day School.

The Board leadership will also include William S. Wood, II as Vice Chairman and Mary Ellen Josephs as Secretary.

EVERYDAY HEROES

A lot of preparation was needed on the last day of The Chester County Hospital's May Festival. Bill Uster, a dedicated volunteer with the Hospital's Men's Group, headed to the 'Attic Attack' early on May 21 to ready it for the day. It was 7:30 a.m.; Bill said 'hello' to Security, parked his car and walked to the booth.

This is where his memory of that morning ends.

As he was overseeing traffic that morning, Director of Hospital Security Ron Takacs was aware that Bill was arranging the treasures offered in the 'Attic Attack.' Just by chance, Ron turned Bill's way and saw that he had collapsed to the ground. Rushing to Bill, Ron listened for a heartbeat and breathing, and radioed the Hospital switchboard at 8:35 a.m. to call 9-1-1 with a cardiac arrest. Security Officer Ken Thompson heard the call and was by Bill's side within seconds. Together, Ron and Ken quickly began CPR.

By 8:37 a.m., Medic 91, Good Fellowship Ambulance and the West Goshen Police arrived on the scene. Medic 91 Paramedics Adrienne Pohar and Ron Sigismonti put Bill on a heart monitor, performed shock therapy, intubated him and administered medication.

Breathing and a heart beat were successfully restored. Bill was transported by ambulance to the Hospital's Emergency Department and was admitted by 8:47 a.m. to the care of Emergency Medicine physician B. Richard Stiles, D.O. Bill was later moved to the ICU where Chief of Cardiology, Nicholas A. Vaganos, M.D. continued his care.

This is where his memory begins again.

Following an interventional procedure in the Cardiac Catheterization Lab, it was determined Bill would require open heart surgery. Chief of Cardiac Surgery, Verdi J. DiSesa, M.D. performed a quadruple bypass.

Bill then received a Cardioverter-Defibrillator Implant (ICD) from Richard Hui, M.D. to help regulate his heart beat. He was discharged from the Hospital to his wife and family on June 5.

Now, Bill says, "I feel great." He knows he was fortunate to have trained professionals so close to him. He is grateful for the "gentle, yet firm, care" he received from the nurses, technicians and doctors who saw him through his stay at The Chester County Hospital. Everyday heroes saving lives. "I really don't know what to say. The only thing I can say is Thank You."

Everyday heroes

We all dread dealing with large companies. The feeling that we are "just a number" and that no one cares about our particular situation is common to all of us, I think. And the healthcare industry is no exception. Long waits to see a physician, costly tests, and the uncertainty regarding your health can all result in a feeling of helplessness.

But not all healthcare organizations are alike. And new reports, now available through the Center for Medicare Services and Pennsylvania's own Health Care Cost Containment Council provide you with information you need to make an informed decision regarding your healthcare provider. Recent studies have compared hospital infection rates, surgical outcomes and the actual costs associated with your care. All designed to give you greater comfort when you must seek treatment.

For many years, The Chester County Hospital has willingly participated in all of these studies. And our results have shown our quality of care to be at or above the norm. Our charges for care, however, are significantly lower than other providers in Chester County.

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

We believe our community, the consumer, and our patients, have the right to know what to expect when they come to us for care. We encourage everyone to "shop around" by calling all healthcare providers in the area and asking about experience, outcomes and costs. We support the movement toward a more transparent system that allows consumers to purchase their care based on good information and knowledge about the people who will be caring for them.

In the coming year we will be undertaking a large expansion project, adding a new inpatient tower to our existing campus. We hope that this addition will ease long waits and enable us to meet the steadily increasing demands of this growing community. Our plans include systems that will move your health information securely and wirelessly from caregiver to caregiver so that you can find comfort in knowing that your team is working together based on common knowledge about you. Patient units will be designed to minimize the need to move the patient from place to place by bringing all care and treatment to the bedside. So while our facility will get larger, our care will remain focused on you.

I encourage you to do your homework when you or a family member needs healthcare. Ask the hard questions. Refer to the national and regional studies that are available to you. And when you do, I am confident that you will conclude that The Chester County Hospital is your provider of choice.

H.L. Perry Pepper
President

You may be able to double or even triple your gift to The Chester County Hospital Foundation if your employer has a matching gift program. Check with your employer's Human Resources Department.

LIFE INCOME GIFTS

If you would like to make a gift, but are concerned about losing a portion of your income, a life-income arrangement may be advantageous for you. You can transfer cash, securities, or other property to the Foundation and provide income for yourself, your spouse, or others for the remainder of your life or a fixed term of years. You may also take an immediate tax deduction and may reduce your estate tax. The Foundation offers a variety of life-income options that can benefit you and the Foundation.

LIFE INSURANCE

An existing policy or a new policy may be written naming The Chester County Hospital as beneficiary. This type of gift offers tax advantages to the donor and also enables the donor to make a substantial gift in support of the Hospital. These gifts are placed in the Endowment Fund to help secure the financial future of the Hospital.

MEMORIAL PROGRAM

Lasting tribute may be made to the memory of a loved one. A letter is sent to the family expressing your thoughtfulness. For contributions totaling $250 or more the honoree's name is placed on the Hospital Memorial Display. These gifts are placed in the Endowment Fund unless they are otherwise designated.

If your memorial gift is designated to the Cancer Center of Chester County, the memorialized individual will be recognized inside the Cancer Center or within the Garden near the Center. These gifts specifically designated to the Center, fund education, support groups and other patient services.

The Hospital gratefully accepts gifts of useable items, artwork, and the like for special purposes or projects.
